

Trinity College London have partnered with Music for Youth and are pleased to support children and young people to achieve an Arts Award through their Music for Youth activity.

Arts Award is a unique set of arts qualifications for children and young people and can be delivered in school settings and across music and community groups. The award takes children and young people on a creative journey, discovering their potential as artists, exploring the arts world and developing valuable leadership skills. Children and young people can achieve an award in any art form, from music to mime, poetry to pottery or dance to drumming.

There are five levels of the award to choose from:

Discover and Explore (designed for primary aged children but for anyone aged up to 25), and Bronze, Silver and Gold (for anyone aged 11-25).

Your Music for Youth activity can count towards children and young people achieving either of the award levels, with Discover and Explore working well for KS1 and KS2 learners and Bronze level being suitable for KS3 pupils.

To run Arts Award you need to attend training and become an Arts Award adviser in the levels you wish to deliver. Training is suitable for teachers, support staff, practitioners, musicians and artists. This can count towards your own CPD and is delivered online where you also receive a toolkit with all the assessment criteria. Find out more about our training options and sign up here.

Once trained, or if you are already trained, then you're ready to get going!

As part of our partnership with Music for Youth, we have created a bespoke Music for Youth Discover template which pupils can complete during their music activity. Once complete, they can then receive a Discover certificate from Trinity College London – which is a national award! Discover certificates usually cost £4.70 each, but we are offering a one-off discount of £3.05 p/pupil instead. When you enter young people for Discover certificates, simply include the discount code MFY2024 and you will be eligible for the discount.

If you have any queries or would like to know more about Arts Award, or how to deliver the other levels across your music activity, then please get in touch with our Arts Award team, who are be happy to help.

Good luck with your Arts Award and Music for Youth journey!
